

April 3

The fishermen at Port au Basque had had put two days when the ice had allowed them to get out on the fishing grounds. On one day they had found lots of fish and on the other day none at all.

Capt. Ross was at St. John's, N. F., for five days waiting for the steamer, and was there when the action was taken refusing to grant bait licenses to American fishing vessels. He says that the matter has been agitated wherever he had been all along from Bay of Islands and that there was considerable excitement over the matter. Those who were in favor of not granting the licenses were for the most part the owners of fishing vessels, some of the members of parliament and of course the leaders of the party in power.

On the other hand those who wanted the custom of granting the licenses continued were the fishermen and those who supplied our vessels with bait and supplies.

He said that all along the west coast and way around to St. John's there were loud protests from the people at the action of the government, the protests being so strong that he should not be surprised to see the action revoked and licenses granted before the summer was over.

While at St. John's Capt. Ross had talks with several of the members of the parliament whom he knew, as well as others whom he met, and thus had a good opportunity of seeing just how things stood in regard to the bait license matter. He said that so strong was the feeling against the recent action that serious results might follow if it was persisted in.

In speaking of the condition of the vessels frozen in at Bay of Islands, Capt. Ross said that they had wintered all right, but he did not think that they would get out very early. In the Humber the ice was only eight inches thick, but there was 50 inches of solid snow on top of it, while out in the bay and only two miles from where one of the vessels was moored, it was from 15 to 20 feet in thickness where the big cakes had been forced and piled up on each other.

Out in the gulf it was one solid mass of ice of great thickness, extending as far as the eye could see. He did not think from the way things looked when he left that there was much chance of the ice starting to give up before April 25. The winter there had been one of the hardest ever experienced on the island.

AGAINST LOBSTER TRUST.

Maine Fishermen Form Union To Fight Combine.

A despatch from Rockland, Me., Saturday says:

Organizer Stuart Reid of the American Federation of Labor has organized the first lobster fishermen's union in the United States at Vinalhaven. A veteran lobster fisherman in Vinalhaven declared today that the men were determined to resist all attempts on the part of any combination to control the lobster business. The union started off with a membership of 100, and it is claimed that 2500 men will be taken into the new organization during the coming month.

BIG TRIP.

Sch. Natalie J. Nelson Has Largest Fare of the Season.

Sch. Natalie J. Nelson, Capt. Albert Larkin, arrived at this port this morning with the largest trip of the season, 155,000 pounds of fresh fish.

Sch. Lizzie M. Stanley, Capt. Joshua Stanley, has a big fare, 100,000 pounds of fresh fish, at Boston this morning. There are several other off shore vessels at Boston this morning with good fares and some will come down here to split as the market is dull on off shore fish.

A FISHERY COMBINATION.

Sydney, N. S., April 3.—The fishing industry at St. Pierre, Miq., is to be revolutionized completely. A few of the leading citizens of the colony, aided by the French government, have formed a syndicate capitalized at $1,000,000. It is the intention of this syndicate to purchase the interests of the smaller business firms, and to control eventually the fisheries and other industries of the colony.

DON'T BLAME THE MANY FOR WHAT A FEW DO. The New York Fishing Gazette in its Saturday's issue, has the following paragraph on its editorial page: "The average fisherman has no 'tomorrow'; it is 'today' with the majority of them. They live for today and give no thought for the morrow; hence they are as a rule, in a hard-up condition, living from hand to mouth, literally. There is no hope of any change."

We do not know the "average fishermen" to whom the above would refer. We suppose that the 5000 fishermen sailing from this port are a fair sample of those who go from all New England, and we are sure that the statement of the Gazette would not refer to them.

The hard-up fisherman does exist, but he is not too plentiful. As in every class of laborers on the earth, there are among the great army of fishermen some ne'er-to-do wells and spendthrifts, but they do not come under the head of "average fishermen." Fortunately their number is few and their moral or financial effect on the great majority is not noticeable.

Anyone who thinks the average fisherman is, as a rule, hard up and lives from hand to mouth, is invited to take a look over the city. He might walk upon Friend, Elwell, Sadler and other adjacent streets and see the homes of our Portuguese fishermen. He could walk over the city, and everywhere he could be shown comfortable homes of men, who, day after day and year after year drag their living out of the sea. He might then go into the Cape Ann Savings Bank and the Gloucester Safe Deposit and Trust Co., and the amounts and number of accounts there in the names of fishermen or their families would cause him to open his eyes. A peep into comfortable, well-kept boarding houses might surprise him. If he thinks the average fisherman gives no thought of the morrow, let him study the men who man the salt fishermen and the Rips fishing fleet. The saving propensities of these men is a matter of common remark hereabouts.

The average fisherman enjoys himself, but he does not waste his substance in riotous living, as the Gazette article would infer. As was said before, there are some who do practically throw away their hard earned dollars, and are more often broke than otherwise, but in what class of workers in the world will these kind not be found? To suppose that they exist in a greater relative degree among the fishermen than other classes is far from correct. The average fisherman is deserving of having better things said about him than that he is "hard up," that he has no "tomorrow," and that he is "living from hand to mouth." The great and deserving majority should not thus be blamed for the mode of living of a few.

ANOTHER COD SEINER.

Sch. Emma E. Witherell Is Now Fitting Out.

Sch. Emma E. Witherell, Capt. Thomas Benham, is now fitting out for a cod and pollock seining trip to the vicinity of Sable Island. This is the second vessel to fit out for this kind of fishing this year, sch. Tattler having already fitted out under command of Capt. Allen Geel, both vessels going from the firm of D. B. Smith & Co.

OFFER NOW ACCEPTED.

Master Mariners Will Have Gloucester Towboat Co.

Final Arrangements Will Now Soon Be Made.

Late developments yesterday afternoon put another aspect on the matter of the Master Mariners' Towboat Company buying the plant of the Gloucester Towboat Company, and now it can be stated that the transaction, whereby the former will come into the possession of the latter has been practically consummated. The new company may not secure all the stock of the Gloucester company, but it will have a great deal over the controlling interest. The price paid will be on the basis of the first and only offer of the Master Mariners' Towboat Co., $30,000.

A meeting of the directors of the Master Mariners' Towboat Co. will be held today, when it is expected that the final arrangements will be completed. It is now expected that the new company will take charge May 1 and that the name will be changed to Master Mariners' Towboat Company.

TO BE SYNDICATED.

Latest Plan to Revolutionize St. Pierre Fishing Industry.

According to advices from Fortune Bay, N. F., it is stated that there will soon be a complete revolution in the fishing industry at St. Pierre, Miq. Four or five of the leading men of the colony with the aid and the cognizance of the French government have formed themselves into a syndicate with $1,000,000 capital behind them and will buy out the interests of the smaller business people so that they will practically control the fisheries and other industries there.

The freezing of cod on a large scale will be a new departure with them and cold storage depots will be created for the preservation of bait fishes to guard against the possibility of the total failure of the cod fishery such as occurred last year, creating such a commercial depression that the colony was next door to ruin.

HAVE SEEN NO MACKEREL.

Many Seiners at Fortress Monroe Last Night.

A COLD EASTERLY BLOWING.

Captains Have Searched Thus Far Without Success.

A special to the TIMES from its correspondent at Fortress Monroe, Virginia, states that the mackerel seiners Constellation, Grayling, Ralph L. Hall, Norumbega, Marguerite Haskins, Mary E. Hart, Natalie B. Nickerson and Lottie G. Merchant put in there for harbor last evening. A cold easterly breeze was blowing and the captains of the seiners report having seen no mackerel yet.

April 4

ANOTHER LOBSTER CHANGE.

Bill To Make Length from 9 to 10 1-2 Inches.

Will Probably Be Offered by Senator Kimball Today.

Today when the much-discussed lobster bill comes up before the senate for action it is understood that Senator Moody Kimball will offer a substitute measure to provide that in addition to the importation of the nine-inch Canadian lobsters, there may be taken in Massachusetts waters lobsters not less than nine inches long nor more than 10 1-2 inches.

In substance, this new substitute measure means that all lobsters more than 10 1-2 inches long must be put back in the water by the fishermen. The idea is that in lobsters of 10 1-2 inches or under, the egg throw is small, whereas when they have grown above that measurement the egg throw almost doubles in amount each year.

As the bill stands today it is known as the Dunham bill, but Representative Dunham is not in favor of the proposed substitute of Senator Kimball, which is to be offered this afternoon. As a matter of fact, the lobster bill has been so changed and altered since it was first in the legislature that few of those interested in the subject really know just what its present form is.

Representative Dunham said yesterday, when he learned of the proposed substitute to be offered by Senator Kimball, that the proposed change in the bill would not be acceptable to his constituents, and he hoped to see it defeated.

Senator Kimball was quoted yesterday afternoon as saying that he expected to see his measure advanced one stage in the senate today, and that, to secure all possible information and advice on the measure, the United States fish and fisheries commission had been written to for information.

This latter step is warmly approved by the opponents of the bills to change the state law from 10 1-2 inches so that crustaceans of nine inches in length may be legally taken. They assert that the United States commission should have been asked for advice long ago, before the various bills of this character were allowed to go through the lower branch of the legislature.

ON EASTERN GEORGES.

Capt. Larkin Saw Several Halibut-ers and Handliners.

Capt. Albert Larkin of sch. Natalie J. Nelson, which brought in the largest fresh fish fare of the season this morning, got his big fare on the eastern part of Georges. He struck good fish weather and fine fishing, 90,000 pounds of the trip being caught in two day's fishing.

Capt. Larkin reports seeing a number of Georges halibuters, among them schs. Kineo, Masconomo and Eglantine and also several of the Georges handliners. The vessels were remaining at anchor and not shifting berths and seemed to be on good fishing.

The trip of the Nelson was a short one, she being gone only ten days. The fare sold to Cunningham & Thompson, Capt. Larkin's many friends are pleased at his good fortune and hope that he will repeat this fare on his next trip.

Maiden Trips.

The new sch. Patrician, Capt. Wesley Farmer, sailed on her maiden trip, south seining.

The new sch. Arthur James, Capt. Archie Devine, will probably sail on her maiden trip, south seining, today.

IN FOR REPAIRS.

Schs. Atalanta and Vera Put Into Halifax.

Former on Ways, Latter Not Much Hurt.

Schs. Atlanta and Vera of this port put into Halifax, N. S., yesterday for repairs. The Atlanta is leaking and will be put on the marine railways. She has 40,000 pounds of fish on board. The Vera is not badly damaged.

YANKEE DOLLARS PERSUASIVE

Montreal Gazette Says Revenue Cutters Are Few.

Here's a good one from the Montreal Gazette:

"The Newfoundland Government has decided that it will not allow any more bait to be sold to United States fishermen in its waters. The regulation will be an annoying one to the Yankees, if it be enforced. There are experiences in the past which indicate that it may not be enforced. The Yankee dollar has a very persuasive influence, and the revenue protectors are few along the shores of the island colony."

FISH WERE SCARCE.

Although March Was a Month of Fine Weather.

So Reports Capt. Cusick of Sch. Independence II.

Capt. Joseph V. Cusick of sch. Independence II. of this port, which arrived at Canso, N. S., yesterday, reports speaking many American and Nova Scotia bankers on the fishing ground recently. All reported fish scarce, although the weather during March has been fine. The Independence II. had 120,000 pounds of salt cod. She will take a supply of bait and return to the banks.

Trout Fishing On.

April 1 was the date for the opening of the trout fishing in some of the New England states, but Massachusetts is excepted. The seeker after the gamey fish will have to go over the line to indulge in his favorite sport.

Launching.

The new sch. Thomas J. Carroll will be launched from Arthur D. Story's Essex yard today. She will be towed here and Capt. Cahoon will fit her for southern seining.

New Marine Sounding Device.

The diaphono is the latest improved device for producing an alarm at sea. The sound is produced by the free vibration in a slotted cylinder of a very light slotted piston, compressed air being admitted in the rear of the piston, and escaping through the slots, which are alternately opened and closed sufficiently fast to produce a pure musical note of loud and continued resonance always at the same pitch.

April 4

Maine Herring Season Opens.

The Maine herring season has opened although as yet but few have been taken. A few were taken at Oors Island Sunday and some had been seen at the head of the bay. Several steamers will engage in the fishery, among them the Arthur B. Kearsarge and Elthier. There will also be a regiment of small boats.

WHALES IN PLENTY.

Canso, N. S., April 4.—Captain Reid of the steamer Strathcona reports having sighted schools of whales on the coast between Whitehead, N. S., and Canso; also in Chedabucto bay, between Canso and Guysboro. The steamer passed close to a number of the fish and they seemed quite tame.

Big Stock.

Sch. Hattie L. Trask, Capt. Peter Dunsky, stocked $2750 on her recent Georges handline trip, the high line share being $104 on the fish caught. This is the largest stock in this fishery for a long time. Capt. Dunsky is a young and energetic skipper and a hustler of the first water.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

On Amount of Duty on Imported Frozen Herring.

U. S. General Appraisers Say One-Quarter Cent Per Pound.

The United States general appraisers have sustained the appeal of Slade Gorton & Co. of this city vs. collector of this port in the matter of assessment of duty upon certain herring.

The merchandise in question is fresh frozen herring which they received from Newfoundland in a British vessel. Following is the decision:

United States General Appraisers, New York, March 28, 1905.

In the matter of protest 148606 of Slade Gordon & Co. against the assessment of duty by the collector of customs at the port of Gloucester.

Before Board 1 (Lunt, Sharretts, and McClelland, General Appraisers.)

Lunt, General Appraiser: We find that Messrs. Slade Gordon & Co. imported into the port of Gloucester, Jan. 9, 1905, certain herring, upon which duty was assessed at three-fourths of 1 cent per pound under paragraph 261 of the tariff act of 1897 as fish frozen not specially provided for in the act. The importers claim said herring to be dutiable at one-fourth of 1 cent per pound under paragraph 260 as fresh herrings.

The herring in question were caught in the waters of Newfoundland in cold weather, and while fresh were spread upon the deck of the vessel, where they were naturally and quickly frozen and thereupon packed in bulk in the hold of the vessel in which they were imported while frozen.

The question for decision is, are these herring specially provided for in paragraph 260 as fresh herring? We are of the opinion that this term, "herrings fresh," covers herring which have not been salted, pickled, smoked, dried, or packed in packages for preservation and that it does include herring which have been naturally frozen while fresh. The protest is sustained.
